

Home

MAY 2014 edition

PANE Prevention

Some things just don't mix and kids and glass are one of them. So, if you're concerned about exuberant kids running through windows or glass doors, you can reduce the risk with safety window film. It can be applied to any glass surface, acting as a membrane that holds the broken glass together if an accident occurs. So instead of sharp shards flying out from a breakage the film holds the shattered pieces securely in place. It is already a requirement for pre-schools and schools. For more information or to find a professional installer near you please refer to the WFAANZ website www.wfaanz.org.au