AutoLight™ is a new electronic light meter from AutoTest Products, which is used by many Australian police officers to test the VLT of car windows.

With +/- 3% accuracy, the device has a new configuration and shape, which allows easy alignment to the glass. According to AutoTest Products, its quick and accurate testing capability conforms with internationally recognised methods. The device requires yearly calibration.

WFAANZ has arranged an exclusive deal for our members who see value in having the same light meter currently used by police.

Existing WFAANZ associate members wanting to purchase the device are eligible for a 20% reduction on the price, which represents a saving of $119.

Cost to members: $477 plus GST
